The Dragon and the Ice Castle

Once upon a time, there was a dragon living in an icecastle. It was a humongus, blue, private, magical place that glittered like diamonds.

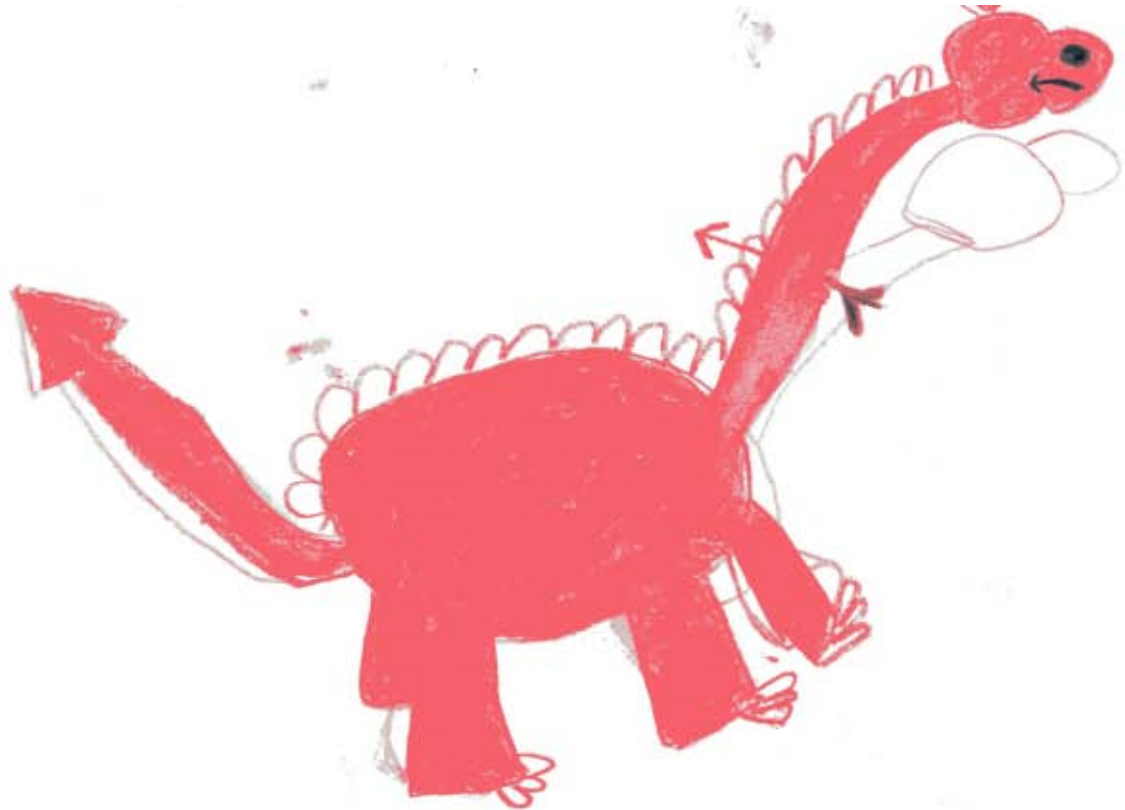

A DRAGON
LIVES HERE

When the dragon was a baby, her mother dropped her off at the palace because she had to go hunt for food so they wouldn't die.

While the dragon's mom was hunting, she was captured by hunters. So the dragon's mom couldn't get back to the cattle to pick up the baby dragon.

Twelve years pass and the dragon had grown up alone in the ice
palace

No one had taught the dragon how to use her fire breath. So she kept burning and melting the ice castle.

One day a polar bear was walking by the castle. He wanted to know who lived in the ice palace

He wanted to know why half of the castle was melted, so he went inside.

When the polar bear went inside, he found the biggest greenest, prettiest dragon
he had EVER seen.

The dragon tried to say hello but only fire came
out. she burned the polar on accident.

The polar bear told the dragon, "Your mother got caught by the hunters."

"I want to see my mother again. Will you take me to her?" asked the dragon. "NO!" the polar bear yelled "you burned me!"

Did you banned me?

I want to see my mother again Will you take me to her?

The dragon said, "If you take me to ~~her~~ I'll give you half of the diamonds in my castle". The Polar bear said, "OK!"

The polar bear took the dragon to a secret cave
under the sea.

Then the dragon saw his mother and brother again after twelve years. They hugged with joy.
